

What happened to the water when you placed it on the penny?

Draw what you observed during the experiment.

How does the surface tension of the water affect the amount of water drops the penny can hold?

Do you think other coins (dimes, nickels, and quarters) would hold a similar amount of water drops? Why or why not?

{ }